3 step

Task for mentee

In the third step the idea with highest total score most probably will have less chances to succeed and will be risky.

Note: Don't enter the business that could be very risky – it's better to measure 9 times and only then cut.*

Note: If the same idea is the most advantageous and riskiest – it is your own personal decision to take a chance or to pass. Try to find the business that provides long time economic benefits. Look for industry that trends are growth. Avoid such business were competition is just in pricing. Why should you rely on the business that you are not familiar with, when you can enter the one that is comprehensible?*

Exercise “Generating ideas”

5 step

Task for mentee

After deciding which idea to take the following step is to determine: Will the business be related with services, products or mixed one? Try to answer the question while thinking, in what situation you prefer to work in.

6 step

Task for mentee

Note: In some sense each type of business is making sales. Sometimes your ability to sell is more important than the product or services itself. Another point is that you have to realize that even if you come up with a fresh idea competitors will enter the market following you in no time.

When you have chosen the most preferable idea by analyzing the entry possibilities (industry, market, competitiveness) – learn entry strategies. Would you rather buy an existing or create a new business? (Have in mind your previous answer about the type of business).

Choose from alternatives

Create		Buy
Cheaper to create		Cheaper to buy
Need specific details or characteristics		Target has a good image
Market is not full		There is market saturation
There is enough time for establishment		Quick presence is needed
